

Position: Evaluation manager

Location: São Paulo, Brazil

Apply by: February 1, 2012

Plan Políticas Públicas, est. 2007, is a consulting firm devoted to project planning, monitoring and evaluation. Our clients are national and local governments and private foundations mainly based in Latin America.

We are currently looking for an evaluation manager with a record of primary research who can

1. Plan, prepare and commission program evaluations
2. Oversee project managers working on site
3. Take responsibility for the quality of research reports

Awareness of multiple research methods is necessary. If the candidate has a background in the natural sciences, she should be familiar with non-experimental models like focus groups, extended interviews or ethnography. Candidates from the social sciences and humanities ought to have a command of statistics beyond the descriptive level.

You need to be able to communicate in Portuguese.

This is a 40h/week position based in São Paulo, with the possibility of up to 20% workload performed from home.

Starting salary is competitive with those of university appointments in the social sciences for the same level of professional experience and academic training.

Interested candidates should send CVs with cover letters to info@planpp.com by Feb. 1, 2012.
